Indiana Primary Is Test

Farm Belt Appeal Of Eisenhower May Be Determined By Hoosier Vote

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Indiana holds a finger-in-the-ring presidential primary today that tests the farm belt political appeal of President Eisenhower and Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

The results can be important or comparatively meaningless, depending on whether major shifts of voting sentiment develop behind the closed curtains of the more than 4,000 polling places in this usually Republican state.

While leaders of both parties agreed that some disaffected Hoosier farmers would switch allegiance from the GOP to the Democrats, signs of any spectacular ballot swing were lacking in advance of the voting.

In fact, voter interest had appeared to be definitely on the listless side right along, although this was the first chance in 28 years for Hoosiers to vote in a presidential preference primary.

The apathy was attributed mainly to a lack of contests. Kefauver's name was all alone on the Democratic preferential ballot. Eisenhower's was listed on the Republican ballot beneath that of Lar (America First) Daly, Chicago furniture manufacturer, who offered only nominal opposition.

Secretary of State Crawford Parker figured the total vote was likely to be a light 650,000.

Kefauver has said he was hoping to pull at least 41 per cent of the total. That was the percentage Adlai Stevenson got when he lost to President Eisenhower in the general election in 1952.

Parker, a Republican, estimated 425,000 Republican ballots would be cast and 225,000 Democratic, a ratio of approximately 65 per cent to 35 per cent.

But Republican State Chairman Alvin C. Cast said that "I'll be happy if we get 55 or 56 per cent, although I'm hoping for much more, of course."

Democratic State Chairman Charles Skillen stood by a qualified forecast of a record 285,000 Democratic primary ballots. The qualification:

"If the weather is so the farmer can work, we won't get that kind of vote. He is two or three weeks behind now."

Said the weatherman: cool but fair, probably just about right for catching up in the fields.

Regardless of how many voters turn out or how they ballot, Kefauver is sure of 26 Indiana votes. Eisenhower will have 32 at the on the first ballot at the Democratic National Convention in August. Eisenhower will have 32 at the Republican convention.

Hoosiers also choose today candidates for the 11 seats in the U.S. House of Representatives and delegates to the Democratic and Republican state conventions next month. It is the state convention which will select delegates to the national conventions, along with candidates for U.S. senator and governor.

Truman Is 72 Today, But No Birthday Party Held In Independence

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman was 72 today but there was no birthday party at his home here.

He and Mrs. Truman took an early morning train from Kansas City for New York, where they will sail aboard the liner United States Friday to Europe.

Truman will receive an honorary degree from Oxford University June 20 and return to the United States July 5.

He announced Missouri Democratic leaders had agreed to his request that he not be named a delegate to the Democratic National Convention in August.

"I want to be completely a free agent when I go to Chicago," he said.

Too Important

Rain usually keeps voters at home but maybe the future of the children is too important to let a few showers keep us from voting in the school bond election.

Northwest Quarter Pickup Wednesday

The second special trash pickup of the week will be made Wednesday for the northwest quarter of Sedalia, extending from Broadway and Ohio to the city limits.

The sanitation department reported that on Tuesday morning 26 truckloads of trash were picked up in the first day's operations, in the southwest quarter.

Heavy Vote Is Reported In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP)—An unusually heavy vote was reported this morning in a special election to name a 13-member board of freeholders to rewrite or revise the city charter—an election that has generated a lot of political fire.

Three and one-half hours after the poll opened a check of representative precincts indicated 22,500 persons, or 6.5 per cent of the city's 346,158 registered voters, had cast their ballots.

This compared favorably with the election last year at which a 110-million-dollar bond issue public improvement program was approved.

A total vote of 125,000 has been predicted by Joseph P. Uxa, chief clerk of the board of election commissioners. Polling places in the 787 precincts will open at 6 a. m. and close at 7 p. m. (ODT.) Partly cloudy weather was forecast.

A Citizens' Charter Committee last night asked the board of election commissioners to guard against possible fraudulent voting today.

The committee's slate of candidates is opposed by many political ward organizations, Democratic and Republican.

Committee Chairman Tom K. Smith in a letter to the board said more than 800 letters out of 11,716 sent to persons in the 18th ward had been returned by the post office, marked "unknown at address given" or "moved."

OK's Resolution On Street Paving—

Ordinance Introduced to Repeal The Old Merchants' Tax License Law

By D. Kelly Scruton

The City Council, Monday night, had introduced an ordinance which will repeal the old ordinance governing the license tax for various business and car licenses. The tax scale is yet to be completed but is expected to be ready by the next Council meeting, May 21. The City fathers also passed 11 resolutions connected with street paving for Sedalia.

The new license ordinance caption was read for the first time at the council and will be given final passage at the next meeting.

Resolutions which were passed were for rock base, six inches thick after compaction and covered with a hot mixed asphalt pavement 1 1/2 inches after compaction for: Albert Lee Avenue, Herold to Sue Lane; Sue Lane, 11th to Albert Lee; Kay Ave., Herold to Sue Lane; Herold Street, 11th south to termination and thence west on Margaret Street, Sue Lane, Dennis north 380 feet; Herold Street from U. S. Highway 50 south to Kay Ave.; Griffith Ave., U. S. Highway 50 south to Kay Ave., all in the DeJarnett Addition.

Holmes Pleads Guilty, Gets 20-Year Term

Trial Had Been Set For May 9 in the James Baylor Killing

Alexander Holmes, 22, was sentenced Monday afternoon to 20 years in the state penitentiary after he made a special appearance before Judge Dimmitt Hoffman and pleaded guilty to second degree murder.

His trial on a charge of first degree murder had been set for May 9. Holmes had pleaded innocent to the first degree murder charge, and the court accepted the plea of guilty to the lesser charge.

Holmes and Warren McGhee, both armed stationed at Whiteman Air Force Base, were accused of the fatal shooting of James Charles Baylor, Jr., Dec. 26 in front of 121 West Main. McGhee was acquitted May 2 on a court-directed jury verdict.

Baylor, who was 37, was shot three times as he escorted two women, Mrs. Louise Binkley, 35, of 305 East Jefferson, and Mrs. Dorothy Sheppard, 39, of Chicago, Ill., to a Christmas dance at the Abbott Recreational Parlor, which was being held by the Tiger Red Club, a women's organization.

Several witnesses said that Holmes and Baylor exchanged words and the shooting followed. The coroner later testified that one of the bullets pierced Baylor's heart and a lung, causing fatal hemorrhage. Baylor staggered into the recreational parlor, was lifted onto some chairs and died a few minutes later.

McGhee and Holmes drove off in a car but were stopped by the Air Police when they arrived at the gate to Whiteman Air Force Base and placed in custody. A .32-caliber revolver was found in the glove compartment of the car. Baylor is survived by his wife, three children and his mother, all of Sedalia.

Tydings Gets New Chance

Could Regain Seat From John Butler Who Won After Senate Inquiry

BALTIMORE (AP)—Millard E. Tydings apparently has won a chance to regain his old seat in the Senate from the man who took it from him six years ago.

"I'm a tired boy," the 66-year-old political veteran confided early today after satisfying himself he had won in yesterday's primary election.

Nearly complete, unofficial returns gave him a narrow edge over George P. Mahoney for the Democratic nomination. Mahoney refused to admit defeat, yet, however.

Sen. John Marshall Butler won overwhelmingly in his bid for Republican renomination.

Tydings served as Senator for 24 years before his defeat in 1950 by Butler. It came shortly after a special Senate investigating subcommittee headed by Tydings failed to substantiate charges by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) that Communists were in the State Department. McCarthy said the committee's report was a "whitewash."

Butler, in his campaign, supported McCarthy's stand. McCarthy supporters backed him.

Reports from 1,261 of 1,277 polling places gave Tydings 138,915 votes, Mahoney 131,219. Since they were tied 76-76 in nominating unit votes, similar to the Electoral College votes in presidential elections, the popular vote would be the deciding factor. This is the first unit vote tie in Maryland history.

Besides balloting in the Senate primary, the state's Democrats also threw their 18 presidential nomination votes to Sen. Estes Kefauver. But with no one running against him, Kefauver's margin was unexpectedly narrow. The opposition was an "uninstructed" delegation.

In returns from 1,147 polling places he drew 98,539 votes. More than half as many—50,595—were cast in favor of sending the delegation to Chicago next August without commitments to any candidate.

By comparison, Kefauver received 137,885 in Maryland four years ago, and 46,361 votes were cast for an uninstructed delegation.

President Eisenhower, also unopposed in yesterday's primary, piled up 48,320 votes with 998 polling places reported. Only 2,378 Republicans voted for an uninstructed delegation.

Neither write-in voting nor crossing of party lines is allowed in Maryland, where Democrats out-number Republicans by 752,500 to 316,916. Eisenhower carried the state against Adlai Stevenson in 1952 by 499,424 to 395,337.

Weather Balloon Over St. Louis Causes Some Speculation

ST. LOUIS (AP)—That round object which glowed about 90,000 feet above St. Louis for 2 1/2 hours last night was just a weather balloon.

The Weather Bureau and jet pilots, who went up for a closer look, confirmed it.

But before they did, there was considerable speculation by weather experts, military men, astronomers, amateur star gazers and "flying saucer" addicts.

White ribbon winners were Panther Patrol of Troop 52, Wolf Patrol of Troop 32, and Hawk of Troop 65.

Troop points were given on leadership, attendance, program, patrol points, and scout spirit. Patrol points were based on competitive events, leadership and spirit.

The camporee opened Saturday morning with most of the troops having arrived Friday night. A full program was scheduled throughout the day Saturday and Sunday with competitive events such as fire building, cooking, tent pitching and building bridges. All scouts attended services Sunday morning either in town or at the camp.

Estimates Gas Refund Of Over 3 Million

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Thomas J. Gavin, Kansas City councilman, estimated today Missouri customers of the Gas Service Co., will receive more than three million dollars in refunds as a result of settlement of a rate case.

Settlement of the Cities Service Gas pipeline rate case was announced in Washington yesterday. The details remain to be announced, the Federal Power Commission said.

Gavin said about two thirds of the refunded total in Missouri would go to customers in Kansas City.

Donnelly Says He Can Veto Bond Items

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Gov. Phil M. Donnelly said today he is certain he has the right to veto appropriations from the state's $73 million bond issue.

And he told reporters he planned to veto some of the items but gave no hint where the axe would fall.

The question came up at Donnelly's news conference when he was asked for comment on a statement last night by Lon Hocker, Republican candidate for governor. Hocker said in a television (KOMU-TV) interview he thought there was "a serious legal question" whether the governor had the right to veto or cut any of the bond issue allotments.

Hocker expressed the hope the governor would not cut any of the items, despite the fact the Legislature did not vote all the money for the State Penitentiary that the administration had requested.

Donnelly said there was no question in his mind about his right to trim the amounts. He said he had not delved into the legal details, but he thought they were just like any other appropriations where he has the constitutional power to cut or knock out items.

The special legislative session to allot funds from the bond issue approved by the voters Jan. 24 ended April 27. The governor had 45 days from that time to act on the bills but he said today he did not know when that would be.

Convicted Atom Spy Asks Either New Trial Or Freedom from Jail

NEW YORK (AP)—Convicted atom spy Morton Sobell today asked that he either be freed from prison or given a new trial.

The 38-year-old Sobell, sentenced to 30 years at the same time Julius and Ethel Rosenberg were sentenced to the electric chair, claimed the government used "false and perjurious" evidence against him.

He also maintained that the trial court did not have proper jurisdiction in the matter. The court took no immediate action.

Sobell is a prisoner at Alcatraz Federal Penitentiary in California. He and the Rosenbergs were convicted in 1951 of conspiracy to commit wartime espionage. They had been accused of taking a hand in filming some of the topmost secrets of America's atomic bomb development and forwarding them to Russia.

First Tornado-Hunting Plane Of Weather Bureau Is Ready

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The weather bureau's first tornado-hunting airplane is ready for action.

Packed with $25,000 worth of special instruments for testing, measuring and photographing tornado cloud conditions, the plane has undergone nine test flights the past 10 days and now is ready for the real thing.

It's an F51, a World War II propeller-driven fighter, owned and flown by Jim Cook, 34, a laconic Texan.

Cook has a $45,000 contract with the weather bureau to do 300 hours of flying—daytime only—around thunderstorms which the forecasters think might spawn tornadoes.

The weather experts want to know more about what causes the

Psychologist Amazes Knife, Fork Clubbers

Dr. Stanley Jaks Gives Colorful Performance

Dr. Stanley Jaks, well known psychologist, amazed an overflow crowd with his "forgery" and "predictions" at a meeting of the Knife and Fork Club held in the Ambassador Room of the Bothwell Hotel Monday evening.

Dr. Jaks, internationally famous entertainer, hails from Switzerland but now is a U.S. citizen and makes his home in New York the few months he is not on tour. Monday night's appearance was his 67th this year before Knife and Fork Clubs.

He held the audience in suspense with his blindfolded duplication of signatures that he had never seen and his statements of fact about members of the audience that he did not know.

A member of the audience was asked to write the initials of another person on a card that was then sealed in an envelope. Dr. Jaks then made a "prediction" concerning the person whose initials were written on the card.

Three members of the audience were asked to write the page number from a book which they had been handed. Without seeing the numbers he duplicated them on paper and also told the audience what the first word of the last line was on that page.

Dr. Jaks also commented on handwriting analysis in connection with a theory that a person's personality and characteristics can be told from an individual's writing.

Other comments made by Dr. Jaks concerned the well known case of Bridey Murphy. In his comments he stated that he believed Bridey Murphy had come in contact with persons from Ireland earlier in life who had related tales of Ireland and these had been remembered by Bridey Murphy in her subconscious mind.

The program ended with a question period in which he stated that he relied upon his knowledge of human nature and a power of suggestion to make his "predictions" and other amazing feats.

Training School Board Represents Missouri In Handling Juveniles

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Gov. Phil M. Donnelly today designated the State Board of Training Schools as the official agency to represent Missouri in putting a new interstate compact on juveniles into operation.

The board and its director, W. E. Sears, will work with three legislators appointed by the governor earlier—Sen. Edward V. Long (D) of Clarksville, Sen. E. Gary Davidson (R) of St. Louis County and Rep. Raymond B. Hopfinger (D) of St. Louis County.

The compact was approved by the 1955 Legislature as a means of cooperating with other states in supervising juvenile parolees and aiding in the return of juvenile delinquents to their home states.

destructive twisters. Weather balloons and unofficial witnesses of tornadoes have been inadequate.

So the experts turned to Cook, who has dusted thunderstorms in Western Nebraska with silver iodide crystals to break up hail storms. That was a pretty rough job, and Cook thinks this tornado business may be easier.

"If the tornado funnel is clear cut and isolated I will probably work up to within a mile of it," he said. "I don't aim to do anything hazardous. There's too much investment in the airplane and instruments to do anything foolish."

The Mustang is parked at Municipal Airport, and Cook is just waiting for the "scramble" signal from the experts in the severe storm forecast center uptown.

What do they think about being chosen for this mission? "Well, it's not deflating to the ego," said Maj. David H. Critchlow, the aircraft commander, with a grin.

US Agent Is First Witness

Caudle-Connelly Trial Opens With Testimony About Tax Evasion Case

ST. LOUIS (AP)—An Internal Revenue Service director testified today about his investigation of an income tax evasion case which led to conspiracy charges against two top officials in the Truman administration.

Ernest M. Flinn was the government's first witness in the federal trial of Matthew J. Connelly, former White House appointments secretary; T. Lamar Caudle, former head of the Justice Department's tax division, and Harry I. Schwimmer, onetime Kansas City attorney and now a Puerto Rican businessman.

They are charged with conspiring to stall and sidetrack prosecution of Irving Sachs, St. Louis shoe manufacturer who was fined $40,000 in 1951 for income tax evasion.

Flinn testified he opened a criminal tax file after a visit in 1945 to the shoe firm where he talked with Sachs and a woman employee. He said his investigation showed the firm had filed false returns for 1942 through 1945.

Flinn, an internal revenue intelligence agent when he started the investigation, said a number of conferences were set up with him by Sachs' attorney and Sidney Cohen, a certified public accountant who represented Sachs.

Flinn said no promises of immunity were made to anyone and that in May of 1947 Cohen sent a check for $185,000 representing the accountant's estimate of taxes still owed by the shoe firm.

Flinn traced for the jury the route of an income tax case through the Internal Revenue Bureau and Justice Department before it is finally prosecuted.

Syllus Newcomb, special assistant to the attorney general and chief trial prosecutor, charged in his opening statement Connelly and Caudle received oil royalties from Schwimmer for their help in the Sachs case.

Connelly got a $3,600 royalty and Caudle one for $3,300, the prosecutor said. He said Caudle gave his back "only after a St. Louis grand jury had started an investigation to determine if the Sachs case was fixed."

The 51-year-old Caudle, now an attorney in Wadesboro, N.C., was fired by Truman for having conflicting outside interests. Connelly, 48, now is a New York public relations man.

Man's Mightiest Power Waits On the Weather

ENIWETOK (AP)—A show of man's mightiest power, the H-bomb, waited today for a power he doesn't control, the weather.

Shot Cherokee, the H-bomb blast, is scheduled tentatively for Thursday (tomorrow, U. S. time) if the weather is right. It hasn't been.

The shot has been postponed twice.

Scientists reported "strong, undesirable" winds at all altitudes, winds which might scatter radioactive particles outside the marked-off danger area of 375,000 square miles.

Three huge B52 jet bombers are parked on Eniwetok. One will carry the bomb and drop it over Namu Island, some 190 miles away in Bikini Atoll.

Newsmen were permitted to talk to the seven crew men with the specification that no questions be asked regarding technical aspects of dropping the bomb or regarding matters touching on the men's psychology.

The sun-bronzed crewmen agreed they had no doubt about the success of the mission, of putting the bomb where the test officials want it, of getting back safely to Eniwetok.

What do they think about being chosen for this mission?

"Well, it's not deflating to the ego," said Maj. David H. Critchlow, the aircraft commander, with a grin.

Despite attacks on his stock and equipment, the average French farmer in Algeria is all the more convinced that he should stay where he is. See Page 11.

INSIDE STORIES

Calls Police, Reporter To Scene—

KC Man Alarmed When Wife 'Disappears' While Fishing

A frightened husband and a wife who calmly went fishing created excitement about 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon and a call for the State Highway Patrol and sheriff. The husband's fright was for naught. His wife was found fishing on the banks of Heath Creek east instead of west, where her husband was fishing with other relatives.

It seems the group from Kansas City decided to come to Pettis County. They had fished there before and had good luck. So early Sunday morning they arrived and took up their positions on various fishing holes.

The wife decided to move up the creek and left her husband and went east to a fishing hole where she appeared to be having success. About two hours after the husband became alarmed and started west looking for the wife and calling for her. There was no answer, but soon he came upon a man's shirt torn to shreds. He returned to his brother-in-law and made the report, then left for Marshall Junction to use a telephone.

The brother-in-law and his wife started looking for the wife. They decided to go east and, sure enough on the creek bank calmly watching the cork bobble in the water was "the Mrs." They went back to their own fishing hole satisfied, there being no other car to go out to look for the husband.

The State Highway Patrol had been summoned from Marshall, and a newspaper man went out from Sedalia. The reporter talked to the excited husband and left for the creek. The Patrol hadn't arrived yet.

As he drove down through the field, he saw the wife standing on the creek bank waiting for her husband.

"He shouldn't get so excited; he knows I like to fish alone where it's quiet. I came back up here to wait for him and let him know everything was alright," she said. The reporter said, "Well, maybe we can go back to the telephone and let your husband know you are O.K."

As they started for the highway, down the road raced the husband in his car.

"Where were you?" he asked? "Fishing," came the calm reply, "and I was having luck."

The Patrol arrived a few seconds later and, assured everything was all right went back to Marshall, and the reporter went back to Sedalia, all happy they didn't have to wade through dust, mud and water. The Mr. and Mrs. returned to the creek bank to try to catch up on the fishing they lost during the period of excitement.

More Than 100 Hurt In Collision

WAUKESHA, Wis. (AP) — More than 100 schoolchildren and teachers were injured yesterday when their baseball excursion train was wrecked in a collision with a loaded gravel truck.

The diesel locomotive remained on the tracks, but 10 of the 16 cars hurtled off the rails. The train was carrying 907 pupils and their adult escorts from Portage in south central Wisconsin to Milwaukee for a Milwaukee-Brooklyn baseball game.

A total of 104 persons were admitted to two hospitals. Thirty-seven, 23 of them children, remained overnight. None were listed in critical condition.

The truck driver, Gordon Hincley, 35, Waukegan, Wis., suffered compound fractures of both legs and internal injuries but was listed in "fair" condition.

The crash occurred at the DuPlainville crossing, five miles north of here and 23 miles west of Milwaukee.

Engineer George Ives, 56, Oconomowoc, said the truck "hit the first coach so hard that gravel was thrown over the coaches. That car was struck so hard that it went off the track first, causing derailment of the other nine coaches."

Ives said the crossing is designated as a 70 m.p.h. zone and that he had slowed down to that speed.

The first 10 coaches veered off the rails, tearing up 1,500 feet of track. Two cars lay on their sides when they came to a rest.

"I just heard a bump," said Violet Groskreutz, a 14-year-old pupil from Westfield in Columbia County.

"The next thing I knew, we tipped over."

The little brown-haired girl was one of those detained in the hospital here with cuts and bruises on her face and injuries to her arm and back.

"I crawled out. No one helped me," she said. "I got out by myself, through a smashed window."

Mrs. Oscar Mayer, a teacher aboard the train, said that "the children in my car—and most of them are only 12 or 13 years old, were very calm. They surprised me. They didn't get panicky."

American Saving Decline Presents Inflation Hazard

WASHINGTON (AP)—Undersecretary of the Treasury W. Randolph Burgess said today a decline in saving by Americans presents an inflationary hazard.

A two-year downturn has brought the savings rate to about 6½ per cent of personal income after taxes, as against 8 per cent in previous recent years, Burgess said in a speech prepared for the annual conference of the National Assn. of Mutual Savings Banks.

"This is disturbing and is a further indication that we are not saving today quite enough to finance the rapid rate of growth of which we are otherwise capable," he said.

Government action, in collabora-

THERE'S A POWERFUL DIFFERENCE

...between an Oldsmobile 88 and the other lower-price cars!

You know you're in a big car... from its looks... from the way it rides and handles! With your first touch on the accelerator—that 230 h.p. Rocket Engine* answers with all its winging gettaway and go!

And what flashing performance in the middle ranges! The Rocket is designed to give you full benefit of high torque—340 pound-feet at normal engine speeds. That means there's always plenty of reserve power—when you want it, when you need it for safety's sake.

This rugged Oldsmobile "88" is built to take all that power, too! For instance, there's an extra-rigid, five cross-membered frame to give you ideal, shock-absorbing balance.

Economy? Well, Oldsmobile's "88" (and the Ninety-Eight, too) took top honors in the recent Mobilgas Economy Run!

There's a powerful difference, all right! Both in the car, and in our quality-minded way of doing business. So come on in now. Take the wheel of an Oldsmobile. Rocket away... today!

Your Eyes and Visual Functions

As much as a quarter of our bodily energy can be used in the process of seeing even tho the eyes and vision are normal and the lighting adequate. This drain on our energy reserves is greatly increased when lighting is poor or when visual acuity is below normal or visual skills unequal to the seeing tasks involved.

It becomes apparent, then, why our whole body is fatigued when our eyes are tired. Adequate lighting free from contrasts and bright, glaring surfaces, is necessary to easy, comfortable, efficient seeing. Good lighting alone is not the only factor needed. Good sight is also important and necessary.

The Missouri Optometric Association asks that you give thought to your eyes and visual functions. How long has it been since your eyes have been thoroughly and carefully examined? In today's living, working and playing, it is of utmost importance that you think about your eyes and vision and give them the attention they deserve.

Health, safety, learning and earning, as well as enjoyment of life and general well being are intimately tied up with eyes and vision. Never may we take vision for granted, for neglect and delay are the chief causes of impaired sight which often occurs in the later years of a normal life span.

A locker door to the Pettis County Locker, 800 West Main, was found open by the police at 10:25 p. m. Monday. It was locked by the officers.

George Chamberlin reported to the police a pair of ladder racks and a rearview mirror stolen from a 1947 Ford coupe parked at the Chamberlin Garage, sometime Monday.

The rear door to Montgomery Ward's warehouse, Third and Massachusetts, was found open by the police at 10:40 p. m. Monday. The manager was notified and the door locked.

Lucks Steel and Wire Co., on Clinton Road, was found unlocked Monday night. The owner was notified and locked it up.

In his petition, Mr. Daniel is asking $25,000 for personal injuries and $500 for damage to his car he alleges were recovered in the accident.

Mrs. Daniel is asking $10,000 in her petition for injuries she alleges she received in the accident.

City Council

of the City Engineer. The applications were approved.

A renewal of a wholesale liquor license of the Quality Beverage Co., on West Main, was approved, and the liquor by the drink license of Frank Hugelman for Huguie's was approved.

The request of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., to install a phone booth on Broadway between Garsts Drive-In and the D-X Service Station, was approved. It was pointed out on question of Councilman Woodrow Garrison who asked how much it would cost the City, that it would amount between $10 and $60. The other boths in the City have in the past nine months turned back to the city a substantial fund.

The Sedalia Water Co. reported two fire hydrants installed, one on West Rainbow Drive, and the other on the northeast corner of West Ave. and Second Street Terrace.

An application for property owners on Warren and Limit south of 20th to enter a sewer manhole with a lateral located just north of the MKT overpass on Limit was granted.

Councilman Garrison asked permission of the Council to purchase 500 tons of rock and 4,000 gallons of asphalt. The request was granted.

He then announced street signs had arrived in Sedalia and are now being erected over the city.

Councilman Dr. Ira White asked for five street lights to be located. They were two which had originally been approved, but failed to make the list, one at New England Drive and Fairview and the other at Fairview and Olive; the other three in the vicinity of Harrison from 20th to 24th. They were approved.

Dr. White asked permission to purchase the summer uniforms for the police department. The request was granted.

Councilman C. L. Kelley announced a meeting of the Council following the regular meeting for the purpose of discussing the City budget for the year.

Councilman James Shaw requested 12-mile speed signs to be placed on Porter and Center streets at the Center Park. This was referred to the police department, as was the order for the same signs at Housel Park as were used in 1955.

Councilman Shaw also asked the traffic department to complete painting of the street markings at Broadway and Ohio so the traffic lights can be switched to the recommended cycle change. He also called attention to the "Do Not Enter" signs at one-way streets.

"They are so small motorists can't always see them. I recommend they be made larger," he said. This was referred to the traffic committee.

The officers' reports for the months were approved. Among them was the report of Police Judge Willard Morris and Chief of Police Edgar Neighbors on the fines collected in police court for April, which totalled $4,426.

Councilman White asked that 15th Street be cut through between New York and Porter. It was referred to the street and alley department.

Councilman Aubrey Case read a petition of property owners between Vermont and Missouri on 20th, requesting the city contract for a sewer lateral instead of their efforts to have it done by private contract. This is in District No. 11. It was referred to the city engineer.

The Council approved all authorized bills which totalled $15,804.51. They included: street and alley, $4,091.91; public buildings, $293.14; lights and water, $4,629.01; airport, $26.99; traffic department, $2,679.88; sanitation department, $806.64; contingent account, $1,857.83; Hospital No. 2, $309.52; police department, $872.60 and fire department, $236.99.

Smith asked the board to see that the right of any of these persons to vote is challenged if they try to cast ballots.

Michael J. Doherty, board chairman, said the board would take up the matter at its regular election day meeting time, 6 a. m.

Smith said the names and addresses on the returned letters were taken from the official registration lists about two weeks before the letters were mailed.

The names of 45 candidates will appear on the single ballot which each voter will receive. A vote for fewer than 13 freeholders will be counted but the entire ballot will be thrown out if a voter votes for more than 13.

Mayor Raymond B. Tucker has appealed for a large turnout of voters, saying the size of the vote will determine "whether unbiased citizens or the political organizations will write a new charter."

The Democratic mayor, who is backing the Citizens' Charter Committee slate, said in his opinion a vote of more than 150,000 will be necessary to assure victory for the Citizens' slate.

The total vote was 142,000 in the May 26 election in which a 110-million-dollar bond issue program was approved.

Kasbah popularly refers to the native quarters of a city, but it actually means "citadel," the fortress of the town.

Methodists Have Mapped New Frontiers

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Methodists headed home today after charting some far-reaching, new frontiers for their big denomination. The church's law-making General Conference, held every four years, ended yesterday. In 13 days of sessions, the delegates had taken these major steps:

1. Adopted procedures permitting integration of the church's racially segregated administrative structure.
2. Extended full clergy rights to women.
3. Allotted a million dollars to set up a School of International Service in Washington, D. C., to train government diplomats and other foreign-service personnel.
4. Approved establishment of two new theological seminaries, one in Ohio and one in the Kansas-Nebraska-Missouri area, and the expansion of 10 others.
5. Set up fund-raising machinery to provide an additional 48 million dollars to strengthen the 116 church-related colleges and universities in the next four years.
6. Embarked on a broad program for stimulating work of local churches in their social and religious influences in their home communities.
7. Strongly condemned legalized liquor as a spreading menace to the health and welfare of Americans.
8. Gave official sanction to birth control.
9. Upped the church's main missionary budget from 30 to 49 million dollars to advance Christianity at home and abroad.

In the final, hard-working session yesterday, delegates plowed through some 200 legislative actions, most of them of an administrative nature. On perhaps the most controversial item on the last day's agenda—a move to liberalize the church's regulations on marriages of divorced persons—the conference postponed any action. The final session also adopted a resolution opposing any government laws requiring "loyalty oaths" from churches. The Rev. Everett W. Palmer of Glendale, Calif., urged the resolution, saying California had such a law, and similar laws were being pressed in other states. The resolution said: "The church must be free to bring all persons and institutions under judgment of the Gospel." The big issue at the conference was the church's segregated jurisdictional system, and after days

Grumbling Over Speed Fines

Most everyone seemed to be satisfied with the 30 and 20 mile speed zones in Sedalia until the new radar check was started.

The accuracy of this mechanical device has put a lot of zip into police court activities, and less of it in the heavy foot some drivers put on the accelerator of their automobiles.

Naturally the police are being charged with persecution by those who have been ticketed and fined. "It just ain't justice," they declaim, "and anyway how come they started it after election?"

That's rather a silly question. Who would want to disturb an election pattern? Neither Republicans nor Democrats would do it.

Everyone knew radar was coming to Sedalia. Ample warning was given before actual operation started.

A great many persons want an allowance of too much tolerance. Some don't think they ought to be fined for getting back to an overtime parking meter five minutes late; they don't want to be fined for going 35 miles in a 30 mile zone.

But there's got to be a breaking point somewhere.

If Sedalians want an hour and five minutes for a nickel on a parking meter, or 35 mile speed zones instead of 30, then they can start putting pressure on city council to change the regulations. That's the way to do it. Council can throw it up to the people in an election, too.

At the moment 30, 20 and 15 mile zones seem to have played a part in keeping most motorists in a safe-driving category in Sedalia judging from the safety record this community has established.

Why not keep it that way?

To do so means conformance to the speed laws by all.

Those who object should not grumble if they are fined for violations.

Washington Merry-Go-Round—

FDR Rebuked 'Influence' Lawyers

By DREW PEARSON
WASHINGTON — The issue in the case of Murray Chotiner, campaign manager and personal attorney for Vice President Nixon, is quite simple. It can be best understood by making some comparisons.

Comparison No. 1 — In 1933, shortly after Franklin Roosevelt took office, several important Democrats who had helped elect him came to Washington and set up law offices. They started to practice law legitimately, but naturally their position of influence helped their law practice. President Roosevelt then announced that if they were to practice law they would have to resign from the Democratic national committee. They had every right to practice law, he said, but not to use the Democratic national committee as a means of getting business.

I was in FDR's press conference when he made this statement. I recall that some Democratic stalwarts who had helped elect him didn't like this at all. O. Max Gardner, Democratic committeeman from North Carolina, said the President was quite right and resigned immediately. But Arthur Mullen of Nebraska called at the White House and squawked before he would resign. Others who resigned were Robert Jackson of New Hampshire and Bruce Kramer of Montana, all on the Democratic national committee.

Comparison No. 2 — Harry Truman continued the Roosevelt rule. However, he got smeared when an attorney named Col. James Hunt, using an autographed photo given him by Truman, started using Truman's name. Truman actually had nothing to do with Hunt.

This was the first big five-percenter case, and the same Senate committee which treated Chotiner so gently was ruthless in probing five-percenter Hunt. The same committee also rode roughshod over Gen. Harry Vaughan for making phone calls from the White House on behalf of John Maragon and friends, just as did Charley Willis and Max Rabb for Murray Chotiner. The same Senate committee did not press Chotiner for the names of the clients for whom the phone calls were made.

This column was the first to expose Vaughan's and Maragon's influence operations, and I personally testified before the Senate committee. This was the root reason why I was called some choice names by the White House.

Comparison No. 3 — Murray Chotiner is just as much a part of the Republican committee as Roosevelt's friends whom he fired were a part of the Democratic committee — perhaps more so.

I happen to have the record of Chotiner's expenses paid him by the Republican committee from June 1, 1954, to Jan. 23, 1956. It shows he received $5,085 in expenses, largely for telephone calls.

His heaviest expenses occurred during the 1954 congressional campaign, which the Eisenhower Administration lost both in the House and Senate.

Because of the discouraging GOP political picture, Chotiner, who had put across Nixon, Congressman Joe Holt, and Congressman Glen Lipscomb in California, was called in as a troubleshooter. His first expenses were modest — $32.56 on June 1, 1954; then $26.84 on June 21; then some heavy long-distance telephoning on Aug. 4 which cost $66.93 and $256.36; then more telephone calls on Sept. 13, costing the rather large sum of $564.06.

Guest Editorial—

OMAHA WORLD-HERALD: Music The People Want. Guy Lombardo was quoted the other day as saying that nice music, like nice people, will always win out. He said he isn't the least bit worried about rock and roll or progressive jazz. He paid tribute to a fellow bandleader, Lawrence Welk, for reviving easy, danceable music on television.

Maybe it's coincidence but neither Lombardo nor Welk is a product of the big city. Guy began as a boy musician out of London, Ont., and Welk started in Yankton, S. D., and Omaha. As teen-agers both were playing to small town dance crowds. Welk, for instance, has probably appeared in most of the Legion Halls in Nebraska and Iowa.

Both men learned early what the people wanted. Lombardo took his sweet music to Montreal and wowed sophisticated audiences there. Welk discovered that what went over in Minden, Neb., and Sac City, Iowa, was precisely what was enjoyed in New York and Los Angeles and by television audiences everywhere.

Maybe Lombardo and Welk are "corny," as the critics say, but Guy has been around for 30 years and Lawrence for 20, and it's a good bet they will still be going strong when rock and roll is as dead as bebop.

Telephone Technique

It should be remembered that Chotiner is credited with the anonymous telephone technique used so effectively against Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas and Congressman Jerry Voorhis when Nixon defeated them. This was the technique of getting minute women or Liberty Belles, or paid operators to call up voters and announce:

"Did you know that Mrs. Douglas had strong Communist sympathies? I thought it was my duty to tell you."

Chotiner is also credited with the idea of comparing Mrs. Douglas' voting record with that of the late Congressman Marcantonio of New York in order to make it appear that she was a "Communist by association." These two techniques helped materially in electing Nixon to the Senate in 1950.

Chotiner's telephone expenses paid him by the GOP committee would indicate that, one way or the other, he still relied on the telephone in the 1954 election.

Chotiner's Influence
On Sept. 20, 1954, the GOP paid him another $435.16 for expenses; on Oct. 5, another $378.40; on Oct. 13, another $289.59; and on Nov. 10, just after the election, the national committee paid him $871.40 to clean up most of his expenses.

Regular checks kept going to Chotiner, however, both in small dribbles and large amounts, the largest being $851.32 on May 13, 1955.

All these, totaling $5,085 for a year and a half, came from the GOP national committee in Washington. An additional check for $151.47 was paid him by the GOP congressional committee on May 31, 1955.

In other words, Chotiner was right in the middle of high-up GOP politics, where influence counts just as it counted in the days when Roosevelt fired his close friends from the Democratic committee.

People caught with their hands in the public till naturally gravitate to lawyers with influence. That was why FDR tried to remove influence from Democratic committeemen in 1933 and it was also why Chotiner picked up interesting clients in 1953. They knew he was a man of influence, and he proved it by being able to go in and out of the White House and have phone calls made for him.

It was all just as simple as that.

NOTE — The above does not include the extremely close relationship Chotiner enjoyed with Vice President Nixon as his personal attorney, or the public relations lectures he gave before the "Len Hall campaign school" — about which, more later.

'Moving Van on Hoofs'

Pisa, a city in Italy, birthplace of the Italian Renaissance, is noted for its Leaning Tower, which is destined to collapse in 50 years if something isn't done about it. Also it has another distinction, namely, the home on a nearby estate, San Rossore, of the only dromedaries to be found outside a circus in all of Europe.

The raising of dromedaries was a hobby of former King Victor Emanuel III of Italy, but when he lost his crown after World War II, the dromedaries at San Rossore were eaten as beefsteak by the starving Italians.

The famous dromedary farm really belonged to the Italian government and was only loaned to the king. Now the government has decided to reestablish the farm. Consequently Italian ambassadors and ministers in the Arab countries have been pressed into service as dromedary dealers to pick up a camel or two.

Whether they walked a mile or not, four hand-some dromedary couples (the one hump variety) have been shipped from Arabia to Italy and the hobby is revived. For what purpose, except to satisfy a whim, no one knows. Maybe the Italians will demonstrate in useful activity the words of the old University of Chicago Black Friars song: "Dromedary, dromedary, moving van on hoofs."

Sweet potatoes are rich in carotene which, in the body, changes to vitamin A.

Amateur Economist Has Company

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The little man gets pains in his head and dollar signs before his eyes when he hears talk about economics. The economists always seem to be disagreeing about money, inflation, deflation, credit.

And when they disagree most they can sound the most positive. Even when they look into the future, as they are always doing, they don't see the same things. The little man thought the pains in his head might go away if he just studied up a bit.

Then he could be positive, too, and even if he was wrong he would feel more comfortable because he could be wrong without having doubts about being right.

He opened a book called "Modern Economics." The first sentence told him: "In these times almost everyone regards himself as something of an economist."

This was wonderful news. From now on no matter what he thought he would always have plenty of company. He thought he had plenty of company already.

He had heard sales of automobiles and farm machinery were falling, that there have been layoffs in both industries but that employment in general has gone up while basic wages are rising.

But it was talk about credit that had been giving him those pains in the head lately.

"Credit," Patman said, "is the poor man's capital." And he said "I don't see any harm in it" if consumer credit was twice its present size. But the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System was getting worried about borrowing.

It thought too much of it might push inflation. So it raised the discount rate for its member bankers. This was meant to put a bit of a brake on borrowing because people would have to pay a little higher interest rate on the money they borrowed.

Immediately experts began disagreeing on whether this was good or necessary. President Eisenhower backed the board last week. But two members of his Cabinet had some opinions on the subject — at least, before Eisenhower expressed his.

Your Child's Health—

Proper Posture Should Start During Childhood

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

It is depressing to see how many people there are with round shoulders, protruding abdomens or other forms of poor posture. In some of these, undoubtedly the bad posture actually interferes with the feeling of health, perhaps by slowing the circulation of the blood.

The best time to make sure that the standing and sitting positions will be satisfactory is during youth.

It is encouraging that those who design school furniture—and the designers of seats in buses, railroads, airplanes, movie theaters, and other public facilities — are coming to realize the importance of comfortable seating which helps to build up or maintain good sitting posture. When a person stands, it is entirely up to the individual.

There are three basic postures: standing, sitting, and lying.

Good standing position does not necessarily mean standing at attention as required on the parade ground. As a matter of fact, long continued standing at attention slows the blood circulation and too much blood gathers in the lower extremities. This explains the fainting which sometimes happens to military men held at attention for long periods.

In ordinary standing, the weight should be shifted from one foot to another and from the heel to the toes. If the body is allowed to make such shifts one becomes less tired and the muscles less tense. The body should be held erect with the knees and feet directed straight ahead. The abdomen should be held flat but not tense.

The shape or height of a chair or seat is important for proper sitting.

The trunk and head should be held straight above the seat or tilted a little forward. The height of the chair from the floor ought to correspond to the distance of the legs from the knee to the heel. The back of the chair should be straight but comfortably fitting. Comfort cannot be ignored.

Too low and too soft seats tend to cause poor sitting posture. Because we are not all built alike, adjustability of seats is desirable, though not always possible.

All of us spend a lot of time lying in bed. Many mattresses are softer than they should be. This causes too much relaxation of some muscles and tension of others. Some backaches are produced from too soft beds.

If this is the case, innerspring mattresses may have to be eliminated. When the bed has too much sag, a piece of plywood can be placed under the mattress. Also,

As Sedalia Sees It—

Some Observations on 'Met,' Grand Opera On the Road

By Joseph A. Dear
Democrat-Capital
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — If you ever meet a chap, natty in dress except for trousers dangerously frayed at one knee, put him down as a harpist.

This identification play is based on a case study, and might have general application. In its favor, incidentally, is the fact that it is not an unsettling association. I once associated the smell of pistachio with choking babies, and that was unsettling, especially when I ate cream of that flavor was served.

The pistachio fixation was acquired some years ago on a reportorial assignment. A couple of babies had choked, and on emerging from their unfortunate home, I got a good whiff of pistachio. From what, I don't know.

The Metropolitan Opera is what brings all this to mind. It's my opinion that the pervading odor which follows the Met about is that of freshly washed celluloid. Perfumed mink occasionally smoothes the essence. But never for long. And at the Met's one night stand here, that's the way it was.

Next to Barnum and Bailey, the Met is the biggest show on the road. On its present tour it is bringing grand opera to 16 cities. The repertoire includes 16 operas. It takes two special trains to transport equipment, scenery, and people — 325 of them.

Chorus and principles ride on one, the technical staff and orchestra on the other. The caste system seems to thrive in organizations like the Army that consume dollars. The Met, a money losing monopoly, is no exception.

Fraternization among those of unequal rank is discouraged, and if pursued in defiance of the System may lead to ostracism. For example, romance between star and orchestra member is taboo. The spirit of the law was put to plaintive music years ago by the man who conducted from the pit while the great Lillian Russell sang from the stage: "You're so far above me — I know you cannot love me — Come down, come down, mah even'n star."

The wretched composer of this cheerless lyric did himself in. Lillian, it is related, was unable to repress a tear thereafter when she sang the song. It was thoughtful of her to remember.

Spokesmen for the Met are understandably unenthusiastic when financing is mentioned. But on the road, at least, the Met does break even. This is achieved by simply refusing to go to a city unless a local committee offers ironclad assurance that there will be no loss.

If the local committee overestimates the capacity of their fellow citizens for opera, the committee members will get stuck for a portion of the tab. That explains the Met's one night stand here. Guarantors got stuck two years running. In Texas, where there is more money and perhaps more culture, the Met stays longer.

For its Washington stand the Met presented The Marriage of Figaro, which is probably the most popular opera of the mighty Mozart. It is based on a play by Beaumarchais, which was first performed in Paris in 1784. The play was a political satire and was promptly suppressed in those capitals where uneasy royalty ruled. Such are the complexities of its plot, however, that I imagine it could have been safely presented anywhere.

Nevertheless, an Italian schoolmaster, da Ponte, worked over the original while Mozart composed. Da Ponte de-emphasized politics, although the Marriage is still considered biting satire by some authorities. Some appreciation of what the two intended is absolutely necessary, for this must influence the manner of presentation. A farce deserves light treatment; a serious satire quite different treatment.

The Met performance was a compromise leaning toward the farce. Cesare Siepi, an Italian bass with a magnificent voice, interpreted Figaro as a lighthearted and carefree fellow. In any serious approach Figaro would appear more cynical and worldly-wise.

One of the loveliest arias in all opera is the Dove Sono, in which the Countess recalls happier days. Eleanor Steber sang the part here. She has a voice of flowing beauty. But her top range is going. And just about everybody who has anything to do with the Met must know it.

So the Met presentation in Washington featured, among other things, a fading soprano and somewhat inconsistent interpretation of the drama itself. This hardly becomes a monopoly — and a monopoly whose devotees occasionally envision a hard cash subsidy from the federal government.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.
Abstract art is very difficult for some people to appreciate. But others find the work of conventional artists boring.

Many folk are fascinated by the furniture of the Empire period, while others like the Provincial design. Still others are intrigued with Victorian settings. Functional pieces are completely satisfying to many other people.

We have a great many likes and dislikes. We maintain many prejudices and preconceptions. Some folk foster inconsistencies and idiosyncrasies which set them apart as individuals in a world where all people are different human beings.

Even our fingerprints are so unlike that no two have ever been found to be duplicates. The task of creating millions of differences in people is beyond our comprehension. Since the Creator has chosen to make us all on a different pattern, it seems reasonable to believe that no mere man could alter the process and force uniformity on mankind.

America may not as yet have progressed very far on its journey toward Godly perfection, but let us pray that we never succumb to any attempt to fit ourselves into a pattern of enforced uniform belief or blueprinted program of living.

God's pattern of human differences is pretty satisfactory.

This Southerner Can Say 'Ninyi Yote' Without Blush

NEW YORK (AP)—Wally Jones is the only Southerner I know of who can say "ninyi yote" without feeling self-conscious.

Jones, a former cub scout from Birmingham, Ala., at 25 is an "yote" in the Swahili tongue means "you all."

Wally shot his first rabbit at the age of 9. At 16 he saw an African movie, and decided right then and there he had to become a professional white hunter.

"I couldn't think of anything life held that could please me more," he recalled.

Thousands of American boys hold this romantic dream briefly, then outgrow it. Wally didn't.

He quit college, joined the U.S. Marines, saved his money. He had $1,000 when he left the Marines in 1952. A few days later he was on a tramp steamer headed for Africa. The authorities in British East Africa made him post a $300 bond to insure his ability to return to America. That left Wally practically penniless on a strange continent.

He went to a white hunter in Nairobi, Kenya, and told him his ambition. The man liked the courage and determination shown by this chunky, blue-eyed Alabama youth. He took him on as an apprentice.

Wally learned so quickly that within a year he had won a hunter's license himself. Since then he has led 15 safaris, shot everything from leopards to elephants. Recently his skill won him the job of technical adviser on "Safari," a Columbia Pictures film starring Janet Leigh and Victor Mature. Jones is one of two Americans among the 30 to 40 white hunters in British East Africa. At 25 Wally is among the youngest. The career of a white hunter is relatively short.

"After 40 or 45 most of them get domesticated and turn to farming," he said. "But one of the best hunters, a Belgian count, is still active at 54."

"Hunting in Africa isn't particularly dangerous if you use your head. In the time I've been out there no client has been killed, and only one professional hunter. He was killed in a shooting accident."

Unscarred himself, Wally, who has a soft voice and hands rough as sandpaper, is completely satisfied with his life.

"The country out there isn't crowded. It's open and beautiful. It's no way to get rich. Oh, goodness no, sir. I figure we make about a dollar an hour or less on safari, and we work 16 hours a day."

"It's not something a person goes into to make a lot of money. When we wear old hats and old clothes, it isn't just for atmosphere. But it's so much fun, it seems a shame to take money for it."

When spring rains halt the safaris, Jones works for the Kenya police at $120 a month, and as a policeman he participated in hunts against the savage Mau Maus.

The clients pay approximately $100 a day to go on safari. Most are well-to-do, but they range from Indiana schoolteachers to airplane pilots and Texas oilmen. "The Texans are about the best hunters," said Wally. "Some of them can stalk game as well as we can. In fact I've learned a few tricks from them."

Many married couples now go on safaris. Papa holds the gun, mama holds the camera.

"It's a funny thing," Wally remarked, "but a husband and wife seem to get along together better on a safari than they do back home. It brings them closer together."

Eventually, Wally hopes to settle down on an African farm of Three meetings have been held for the Striped College 4-H Woodworking Class at the home of the leader, Ted Dabner.

Demonstrations were given as follows: "How to make a hog trough" by Billy Eye; "How to use

Those present at the meetings were Don Eye, Ralph Eye, Billy Eye, John Dale Hansen, Phillip

"I'm still single," he said, grinning. "But I'm not only willing to marry — I'm begging."

However, girls, if your beau ideal is a professional white hunter don't waste your stamps writing to Wally. He's already got a girl in mind — and she's in Africa.

The reason? It has the best characteristics of sour-mash bourbon and sweet-mash bourbon. It's one step better—mellow-mash, the exclusive Yellowstone way of achieving full-bourbon flavor with light body.

People outside Kentucky are discovering this old favorite. Why don't you? Once you taste it, you'll know why it's called "the greatest American whiskey!"

Dunninger Has New TV Series Ready

By SAUL PETT
NEW YORK (AP) — Joseph Dunninger, who calls himself the "master mentalist," begins a new ABC-TV series tomorrow night.

He came into the office the other day for an interview and brief demonstration. He is a big, graying man with a rather courtly, almost effusive manner of being not glad, but very glad, to see you. He also appeared nervous and quickly — he does most things quickly — explained why.

"I'm a thought reader," he said, "not a mind reader. The mind is too inclusive. I've been reading thoughts for more than 30 years and I still get nervous before a show. There are 101 things to worry about, especially on TV."

"If I ask a subject to concentrate on his birthday, will he really concentrate on his birthday or pick another date and try to trick me? Will the subjects be long-winded, will they take too long or talk too much — you know how precious time is on TV."

Dunninger said he doesn't mind skeptics but people who fight him mentally upset him. He said he has good and bad days, depending on his own peace of mind at the moment and his physical well-being. Quite apropos of nothing, he said he had a terrible memory himself and before I could find out why he brought that up, he was racing off on a dozen other points.

"Many people have this special mental power I have without knowing it," he said. "I first noticed it when I was 7. A visitor would knock at our door and before it opened I'd tell my father his name. Most people don't realize it."

How could he tell the man's name — by reading his mind? And does that presume the man was concentrating on his own name while he knocked on the door?

"Oh, no, no, no," he said. "Association. Process of association. Now, you take a lot of people, they insist what I do are tricks. I'm a magician too," but when I say I read thoughts, I read them and there are no tricks involved."

Hitchcock Has Become One Of the 'Herd'

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Alfred Hitchcock, who once remarked that "actors are cattle," now is finding out what it's like to be one of the cattle.

Actors have always suspected the director of being a frustrated member of their craft. Why else would he inject himself in a brief scene in every one of his films?

The Hitchcock ham became virulent last fall when he began his television show. He came on at the beginning and the end to read the whole proceedings including, daringly enough, the sponsor and his commercials. His candor, plus the quality of his suspense dramas, captured the public fancy.

Recently he realized the impact of his TV activities in New York, where he was filming locations for "The Wrong Man."

"It was awful," he said, though appearing to have enjoyed it. "The depth was reached when the location manager had to ask the director — me — to take a drive because people were crowding around him and ruining the scene. Imagine!

"Everywhere I went, people would point at me. It got to the point where I could think of nothing else to do but point back. Once I encountered a woman in the subway. She continued pointing at me as I stared at her. Finally I asked her what she was doing. She replied that she had heard I would point back at her and she was waiting for me to do it!" Hitchcock said he was recog-

New Algerian Rebel Attacks Make French Colonists Dig In

CONSTANTINE, Algeria (AP)—A new outburst of rebel attacks on French settlers in Algeria has only steeled the determination of many colonists to keep their holdings in this violent North African area.

The latest assaults claimed well over 100 lives in the past two days. The dead included 97 rebels, 20 European civilians, French soldiers and police. Forty-five French farms were burned by Moslem nationalists.

Such outbreaks during the 18-month-old rebel campaign for independence from France have sent some settlers back to France and other farmers to Algeria's cities. But appeals to French settlers to stay on their lands generally have been unnecessary.

An example is Roger Rousset. A ruddy-faced man in his early 40s, Rousset owns three farms—about 2,000 acres—south of Constantine. His chief crop is wheat but he also has grazing land, rice fields and some fruit trees.

The rebels have struck three times at Rousset's farms. One night they killed 54 cattle and five sheep. Another attack left 76 sheep dead, his combine wrecked and his repair shop and tractor burned. In the third raid 105 sheep and five pigs were machine-gunned.

Rousset's diesel engine for pumping irrigation water has been sabotaged. He has not replaced it because he fears it would only be damaged again. He now pumps water by electricity, although electric power is expensive here.

A night seldom goes by without attacks on one or on many farms in Algeria. At one place it may be 60 acres of olive trees chopped down, at another 2,000 grape vines may be cut at the roots.

In principle, the government compensates farmers for damages but evaluation of losses is difficult and payments are slow. Has Rousset ever thought of selling out? "Never," he says. "I always think of buying, not selling out and finding a more peaceful place to work."

"When I was a youngster I helped my father clear the land of rocks and timber," Rousset says proudly. "When we moved in there was nothing growing here. We made the land what it is today."

Rousset shares the feeling of most French farmers that force

Stevenson Starts Round of California Campaigning Today

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Adlai Stevenson sets off on another rigorous round of California campaigning today with word to Democratic rivals and Republicans alike not to write him off in the presidential race.

Alluding to his sharpest primary election setback to Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), he said, "After Minnesota, The Republican press wrote me off. But things have changed . . ."

Since then, he said last night, "we have been doing well, indeed," in Pennsylvania, Illinois, Alaska and the District of Columbia.

"I am looking forward to doing just as well in California on June 5."

The 1952 Democratic nominee spoke before a San Jose barbecue dinner crowd estimated at more than 1,000.

The event topped off a daylong tour of California's central coast with turnouts which "amazed" Stevenson.

can make possible a return of peace.

"I am a pacifist," he says, "but I am convinced that it can only be done with force. We have been too lenient and we have suffered. Now we must be permitted to live in peace."

Sea Elephant Arrives At the St. Louis Zoo

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis zoo's biggest romance is in the making.

A candidate for affections of the two-ton sea elephant Moby Dick has arrived by air from California. The 500-pound mate was termed a regular beauty in sea elephant circles yesterday by Zoo Director George P. Vierheller.

She already has shed her fur and is a fine jet black.

The cow was kept in a separate enclosure overnight and was to be launched today in the pool where Moby Dick is king.

Vierheller hedged a little and called the candidate a prospective mate.

"Either side may be fickle and romance is imponderable," he declared.

Japanese and Reds Extend Agreement

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese fishing interests and Red China signed an agreement in Peiping today to extend their private fishing agreement one year. Kyodo news service reported. The previous agreement divides the Yellow and East China seas into six authorized fishing areas and provides three refugee ports in each nation for ships in distress.

Electronic Brain Will Design Jet Engines

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A huge electronic brain is being assembled for use in the design of advanced jet engines. Beckman Instruments, Inc., is building the computer at Berkeley, Calif., for the Allison Division of General Motors in Indianapolis. With it, designers can picture an engine in action under varying condition before it is built.

Mrs. Munn Is 'Volunteer Of the Month'

Mrs. Sue Munn, 2300 North Woodland Drive, wife of M-Sgt. Eugene G. Munn, Headquarters Squadron, 340th Bomb Wing, has been selected as the "Volunteer of the Month" in the Dependents Assistance Volunteer Program for the month of April 1956.

In March, 1956, the Whiteman Air Force Base Dependents Assistance Center established as one of its functions a housing committee. The mission of this new committee was to locate and inspect available private family housing in the communities surrounding Whiteman AFB, and maintain a housing file for the use of WAFB personnel seeking homes.

Mrs. Sue Munn was selected as chairman of this new committee. Publicity about the new DA service, including Mrs. Munn's telephone number and address appeared in all the local papers and the base newspaper. On the day the article appeared in The Sedalia Democrat, Mrs. Munn received over 40 calls from civilian landlords and landladies wanting to list their properties for rent to military personnel.

Mrs. Munn immediately established a card file, separating the housing availabilities as to whether they were furnished or unfurnished, one or two bedrooms, apartments or houses and so on. Then she and her ten committee members started their inspection visits to the houses noting on each visit the location, physical features of the property and other bits of information of interest to prospective renters. Each committee member in each of her contacts stressed to renter and landlord alike that the service is free, provided by the dependents assistance program through the efforts of its volunteer workers.

Soon Mrs. Munn started receiving calls from newly assigned WAFB personnel seeking homes in the nearby civilian communities and the infant housing committee began fulfilling its assigned mission . . . that of finding adequate housing for base personnel. Since its beginning on March 15, 1956, the housing committee, effectively spearheaded by Mrs. Munn, has helped find homes for over thirty families new to Whiteman AFB.

The new service has met with widespread approval among both civilian property owners and military families seeking homes.

Mrs. Munn and her workers operate and maintain files in five communities within a 25 mile radius around the base. In addition the committee maintains close contact with the local Chambers of Commerce for rent-listings they may have.

The response to a dependents assistance housing committee has been tremendous and Mrs. Munn

Fish Fry Given By Hughesville H. and H. Club

By Miss Mary E. Tevebaugh
HOUSTONIA — The H and H Club enjoyed a fish fry at the Hughesville School Friday night. The families were guests for the occasion. Films and talks were the entertainment for the evening.

Miss Judy Blackburn, Kansas City, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Blackburn.

Mrs. John Tignor and three children, Kansas City, spent several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hand.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Werneke and son, Freddie, entertained with a family dinner Sunday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Paxton and Mrs. George Stickle, Kansas City; Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Houchen and Mrs. Lewis Wicker, Sedalia; Mr. and Mrs. Charley Houchen, Sweet Springs; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nagel, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Houchen, Hughesville; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Werneke and two sons, Nelson; Mr. and Mrs. Clay Houchen, Mr. and Mrs. James Werneke and son, Jimmie.

Gordon Rissler and children, Greeley, Colo., spent several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Rissler.

Mrs. Claude Nutt entertained the Monday Night Bridge Club Wednesday night. Mrs. Sidney Hoard was a guest. Awards went to Mrs. Lon Stone, Miss Ella Wilson and Mrs. Hoard.

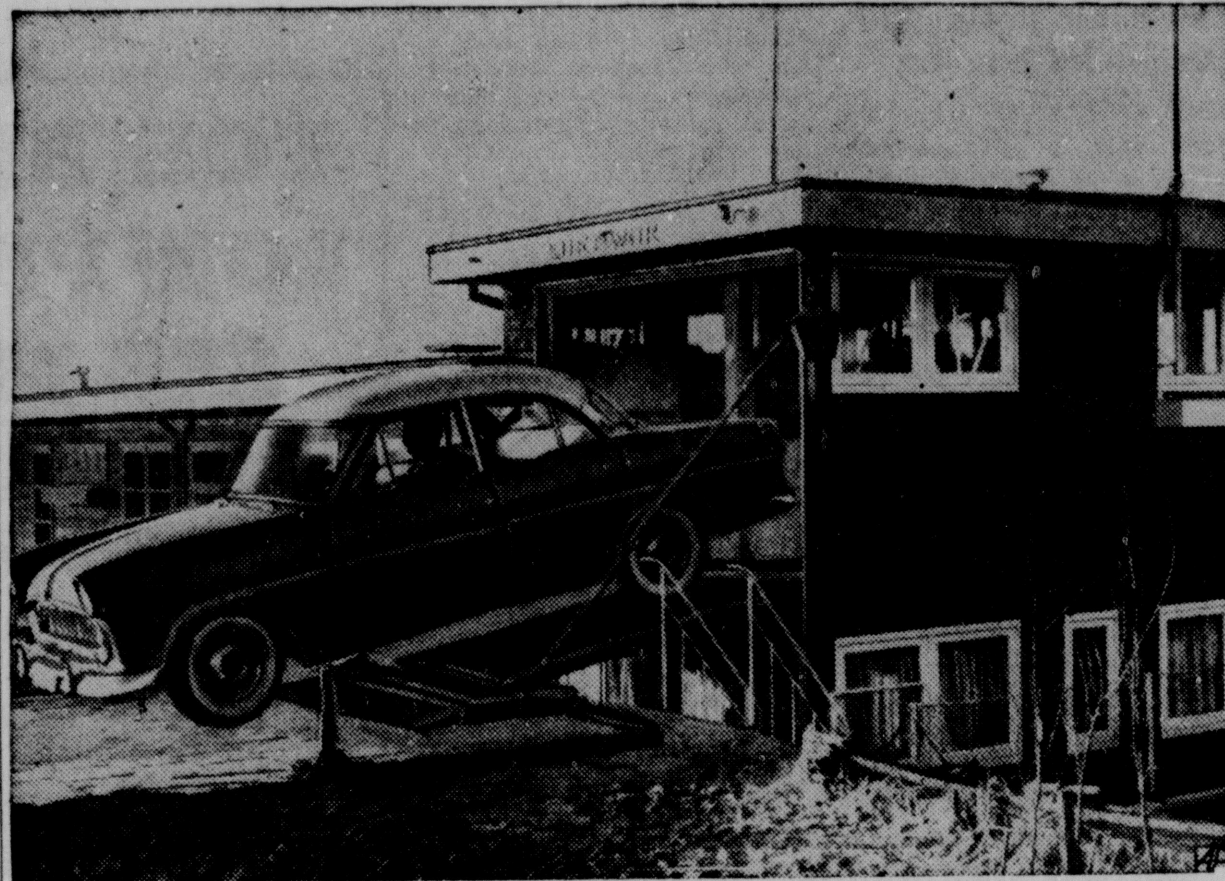

James Bear, Roanoke, Va., visited his cousins, Mrs. G. H. Tevebaugh, Mary E. Tevebaugh and Mrs. Lon Stone Thursday.

The following attended the WMU quarterly meeting at the Olive Branch Baptist Church Tuesday: the Rev. and Mrs. James Eads, Mrs. George Williams, Mrs. Martin Benning, Mrs. Anna Tagtmeyer and Mrs. Joe H. Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Scott, Iowa Falls, Ia., were guests of Mrs. Mamie Scott and Miss Margaret Scott over the weekend.

and her committee members have labored tirelessly to make this new DA volunteer service a magnificent success.

During the month of April Mrs. Munn averaged over three hours work per day for a spectacular total of over 100 hours in DA housing committee work. One morning alone she helped place three families in homes through the use of her up-to-date card file. Mrs. Munn's telephone is probably one of the busiest in Sedalia, handling an average of ten to 15 calls per day, seven days a week, taking listings from property-owners and requests for housing from base personnel. Also each day she receives letters and long distance phone calls from people in other smaller towns in the area wanting to list their properties for rent to military families.

US Will Help Allies Send Israel Arms

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles has told U. S. allies this country will do all it can to help them send arms to Israel while maintaining its own embargo on weapons shipments to the Middle East.

This was learned authoritatively today following Dulles' return from a North Atlantic Treaty meeting in Paris.

Dulles declared on arriving here that NATO still is primarily a military organization. But he said a need has been recognized for its further development "to surmount the shifting tactics of international communism," and added:

"No time is to be lost in realizing this enlarged goal for NATO."

The secretary is expected to expand on this theme in a report on his trip to be carried by radio and television networks tonight.

The address is scheduled at 9 p.m. EDT.

Dulles is reported to have talked about the arms-for-Israel question during a side meeting with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau.

France is known to be unhappy about U.S. refusal to share responsibility for France's recent sale to Israel of 12 French-built jet fighters.

The planes were ordered for NATO under a U.S. contract with France. The U.S. government agreed to relieve France of its commitment to deliver them to NATO, but France had to assume responsibility for sending them to Israel.

Dulles is reliably understood to have told Lloyd and Pineau the United States in this way can facilitate arms shipments to Israel and that it stands ready to make similar actions easy in the future.

Dulles was reported disturbed to find many NATO members feeling that they could relax their defensive efforts because of new Soviet soft talk.
